

Writing a Qualitative Research Paper: do's and don'ts

In your academic years, especially when you are in your college, you are required to write research papers on different subjects. However, in some colleges, in order to complete your degree, you are required to submit a final research project.

As an essay writer, you might have a lot of essays in your schools and college, so you must know how the academic rules and conventions are followed to achieve your goal. I know that writing a research paper is not easy and it requires a lot of effort, strength, and determination. But let me tell you one thing that when you are well aware of the things regarding conducting and writing a research paper, you can easily write a good research paper without any inconvenience.

When you write a research paper, you have to follow certain norms and rules of writing research and a paper as well. For example, we have different types of research through which you reach your goal and write a paper considering all the requirements to the type you have selected for your paper.

Qualitative and quantitative research differs in their methods. Basically, these two are the methods with which you conduct a research paper. Qualitative research is descriptive and answers the question in the form of description, whereas quantitative research is in statistics where you conduct the research in order to find the numerical answers to the questions.

When I write my essay, the first thing I consider is what type of research I am doing and what needs to be done and what I should avoid. Qualitative and quantitative are the two main types of research that are usually conducted.

So, in other words, we can say that qualitative research deals with words and their meaning, whereas quantitative research deals with numbers and statistics. No matter what type you have selected for your research, you have to follow the rules.

Here are some of the do's and don'ts of writing a qualitative research paper.

Do's of writing a qualitative research paper

1. When you write a qualitative research paper, do not quote your authors too much
2. Try to be concise and avoid discussions in the methodology chapters.
3. You need to avoid the discussion of the topic in the methodology.
4. Cross-examination of your work is very important.
5. Discuss your work with others such as your peers and your teachers. Through discussion, you will get to know if the method you are using is correct or not. This discussion will also help you to know that you got the right participants for your research.
6. If you have a recording, then transcribe the recording. Do not rely on notes.
7. You have to make sure that you present a clear examination of the demographics you have presented and keep the background and context of your participants. This is a very important factor in qualitative research.
8. Write down the date and the place where you conducted research and on whom. The time duration and the details of your meeting should be included in it. These are the things that you have to include in your research paper. This is why you have to keep an eye on these details.
9. When you write, make sure that you are following the pattern of writing a qualitative research paper.
10. Make a proper research question that you are going to address in your research paper.

11. Devise a proper hypothesis on which you will be working or the theory on the basis of which you are conducting research.
12. Make your analysis detailed, let your readers know what you have found, and discuss under the underlying foundation of your hypothesis or the theory you have chosen.
13. Conclude your research paper by including all the important points of your paper and giving suggestions and recommendations.

If you have any trouble writing a research paper then you can ask for any essay writing service and get help from them. They will provide you with different services which also includes help regarding writing research papers. Ask them where you need help and you will be able to write an outstanding research paper.

Don'ts of writing a qualitative research paper

1. Avoid plagiarism as much as possible. Of course, you need to include the work of others in order to reach the gap that you are going to fill, but you have to make sure that you are giving due credits to the author whose works you have cited.
2. Avoid using online tools for paraphrasing and other things.
3. Do not rely on the thought that you will complete your paper in a short period of time. So, you have to start early.
4. Do not make your research paper a story.
5. Do not add any extra information that is not related to your research paper. Stick to the point on which you are conducting the research.

The above mentioned are the do's and don't of writing a qualitative research paper. If you follow these rules and incorporate them in your research writing then you will end up writing a very good research paper with all the perfection.

All you need to do while writing a qualitative research paper is to be patient and determined. These two things are very essential for a research essay writer, and if you excel in these two things. you will not face any trouble in writing a paper again.